

I am absolutely against the creation of any law or guideline that would allow Internet service providers (or any other group) to influence the accessibility of any website. I support a completely neutral Internet.